GUINNESS MYTHS

Here are some of the most common myths that we hear about Guinness;

"It's Heavy" – It's actually just 125 calories per serving making it one of the lightest draught beers.

"It's Bitter" – Guinness requires proper care and handling from the time it comes into the pub until the time it hits your mouth. When it's done right, Guinness has a smooth, creamy taste... and we do it right.

"It's warm" – Years ago, Guinness was served warmer than it is today due to the lack of refrigeration in rural Irish Pubs. Guinness is poured "Extra Cold" in the Guinness Brewery in Dublin and at the Piper Down.

"Guinness in Ireland is better than the U.S. Guinness" - All Guinness poured in North America is brewed in St. James's Gate Brewery in Dublin, Ireland.

They say you have to have three pints of Guinness before you can decide if it's the beer for you.

So, get on it!
